STRUCTURE

Structured floor coverings pose a problem for cleaning and care, because the deeper zones of the structure can't be reached, processed or cleaned with conventional, well-known cleaning products like Superpad discs and cleaning brushes. The solution here is the patented Abranopp® cleaning pads, because no matter how difficult the task is, one of this range of versatile pads will always have the right abrasive grains, nub structure & nub size to achieve a thorough and deep cleaning of your floors! Abranopp® cleaning pads should always be used wet – and if your floor is heavily soiled and/or stained, use them together with the flooring manufacturer's recommended cleaning and care products.

ON THE MARKET

The surface tension of the normal and Superpad nonwoven disks available on the market make them unsuitable to get right down into those deeper recesses. Conventional brush systems can remove the dirt on the flooring's upper surface, but they're too rigid to get down deeper where the tough soiling lies in wait – and if the bristles are too soft, they can get right down there, but they just don't have enough cleaning power to effectively attack and remove it.

UNIQUE

The Abranopp® cleaning pads have been specially developed to solve this 'deep-seated' problem – and at least one of the range will always have the perfect nub size, shape and abrasive grains to solve any structured floor cleaning problem you may be confronted with.
